What projects are being cut from the Department of energy?

Projects promoting hydrogen,electric vehicles,carbon capture and direct air captureare among the list of potential cuts from the Department of Energy,according to a leaked list reviewed by The Times.

Should the Energy Department cut funding?

Some Republicans,however,urged the Energy Department to make cutsdespite the potential economic hit to their states and districts,noting that many of the projects may be untenable even with the federal support. Sen. John Hoeven (R-N.D.) said he supports narrowing grant funding to "projects that are committed and are still viable."
